Citizens' Association Also Hears of Probability of Erection of K Street Bridge.

Saving children from evil after they have once been tempted most interested the meeting of the Georgetown Citizens Association at Co-operative Hall last night. The prevailing feeling was put in resolutions for a juvenile court and more probation officers. The resolutions as adopted were as fol-

MAN HE THRASHED FINDS MARINE HILL

Captured Deserter Says He Was Betrayed.

RIVER DRAGGED FOR HIM

Betrayed by a man whom he thrashed at the Washington Barracks, three weeks ago, Harold H. Hill, eighteen years old, a member of the Marine Hospital Corps, was arrested last night by police of the Fourth precinct and is held as a deserter. He will be turned over to the naval authorities this afternoon

Hill disappeared from the navy yard on July 17 of last year, leaving a note in which he intimated that he had committed sulcide. He never had any inter tion of ending his life. He merely wished to go to see a girl in Maryland and did not have the money. He believed if he asked for leave of absence it would be refused him.

River Was Dragged.

The Potomac river proper and the Eastern branch were dragged for a week or more in the hope of catching his body, but without result, because the young man was in Maryland and had not gone near the water.

Hill, who deserted from the English army before enlisting in the United States navy, is six feet tall, with broad shoulders, broad chest and a quick eye. He left his home in Kansas to work on a nearby farm, but being of a roving disposition he prefered a makeshift existence and has wandered since.

He now faces court-martial on charges of destroying Government property, carrying off Government property, car-charges of desertion and abandonment of his post. The lowest penalty he can expect is eight years in the prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, or in the prison at Boston.

Will Keep Pistol.

The charge of carrying away Government property is based on the fact that while he was stationed at the Navy Yard last summer, he jumped over the wall and took with him a pistol, which was the property of the Government.

Asked where the revolver was, he said: "I know where it is, but I won't tell any man in the world. I intend to tell any man in the world. I intend to get it when I have finished my sentence in Boston or Fort Leavenworth and blow off the top of the head of Clarence O. M. Strader, as he calls himself, who is the one who squealed on me because I beat him in class and licked him in a fist fight."

Though Mr. Churchill's novels have been dramatized by others, "The Title Mart" is the first play he has attempted, and the wisdom of being his own playwright is amen'y demonstrated in this sparkling comedy. As is to be expected from such an author, the dialogue is excellent and full of genuine humor. An exceptionally clever company of players will interpretate this comedy, including Frank Gilmore and Arthur Hare.
